pH Productions is greatly looking forward to the creative contributions of these new cast members. They can be seen shortly invigorating pH's weekly late night comedy shows.

pH recently established a new structure for its cast of talented actors. The cast is now divided into two groups: Company and Repertory. Both groups are official members of pH Productions with the major difference being amount of time given to the organization, i.e. stage time.

Company members will be held to a higher standard and will be expected to maintain the highest level of performance quality. They are the lifeblood of pH, performing in the weekly late night schedule.

Repertory members are cast members who will play less frequently for a variety of reasons. However, they make up two distinct groups within pH Productions: Repertory players are assets to pH Productions who are not yet ready to take on the full body of pH work. Repertory players will not have as many performance slots and will be working toward earning their spot in performances, with the end goal of becoming a Company member. Featured Repertory players are seasoned improvisers who have shown an interest in participating in pH but due to time constraints can only give a small amount of time.
